MOM

I wait and wait, my watch is ending as I feel its nearness, Lerking silently in the darkness stealing life, happiness and love away on quite whispers of pain and confusion, leaving just stillness in its wake.

*Memories fade like melting snow,
Laughter and love fall away,
Wear on the long goodbye,
Lost in the concept of endings.*

*Family cling to the life long lived,
Remembering the stories and lessons learned,
As darkness shines its ever cast,
Tears fall away grasping to hold on as seconds pass.*

*A beacon light shines bright and strong,
Guiding loved ones to a place unknown,
Life moves on worn and weak,
May love abide bittersweet peace, deep inside.*

Reflection of a few cherished memories I have, I remember her mightiness and warmth. Our time together was brief but her love left an everlasting mark on my heart. I know my dad met her and gave her a huge hug. Love you always Grandma... Angie

My condolences to all of "Jerrie's" family. I had the honor of working with her at the Sheriff's Dept. I was young at the time and but learned that though she was tough, she always had a minute to sit down and listen to me and sometimes offer advice. Rest in peace Geraldine.
